Each time I look, I find something new...

I've stolen a page from Hiroshige and Hokusai. Just as they lived intimately with the magnificence of Mt. Fuji, I live with the mystery of the Sandias every day and have begun a series entitled 101 Views of the Sandias.

These mountains are never the same mountains. Each time I look, I find something new, something wonderful and inexplicable I've not seen before.

I finally got the guts to paint the Sandias after looking at them for 40 years. They are my neighbor, friend and guru. The first painting in this series was Coronado's Gold. This one is Number 9: Rain Dance.
